SKIDDING CARS INJURE THREE ON WEDNESDAY

Wet pavements and skidding automobiles caused injuries to three motorists late Wednesday afternoon, according to state police of the Gettysburg substation.

Mrs. Ethel Trew, of 75 W. Stevens St., suffered contusions of the left arm and side of her head at 6:20 p.m. when an automobile operated by her husband, J. Wilkins Trew, was struck by an automobile driven by S. L. Warren E. Leitzel, 20, of Millersburg, Pa., a sailor stationed in Washington, D. C.

The accident occurred five miles south of Gettysburg on the Emmitsburg Rd. as Leitzel's car, traveling north approaching the bridge over Marsh Creek, skidded into the front of the Trew automobile, police said. Mr. Trew suffered bruised ribs. Both he and his wife were treated by Dr. C. Harold Johnson.

Skids On Curve
An automobile operated by Calvin L. Fissel, 49, of Biglerville, skidded on a sharp curve on the Hilltown-Arendtsville Rd. a short distance north of the Lincoln Highway at 5:20 p.m. and struck a car driven by Jacob Emory Ford, 47, of Orrtanna R. 2, state police said.

Fissel was driving south toward Hilltown. Mrs. Mildred Ford, 35, suffered a laceration of the chin, contusion of the forehead and bruises of both legs. A passing motorist took her to the Warner Hospital for treatment of her injuries.

Damage in the two accidents was estimated at $2,900. Damage to the Trew automobile was estimated at $1,500; to Leitzel's car at $800, and to the Fissel and Ford cars at $300 each.

PRESIDENT MAY CALL CONGRESS BACK ON PRICES

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Truman said today he is considering calling an extra session of Congress to ask for a stronger price control law.

He told a news conference that no decision has been made, but he has the matter under consideration.

If it is necessary to call a special session, he declared, he will call it. A decision will await developments, he added.

No Comment On Arnall
Truman declined to comment on reports that Ellis G. Arnall is preparing to quit as price stabilizer.

Arnall, former governor of Georgia, went to the White House yesterday bearing his resignation, effective September 1, and a report to the President that food prices again are rising sharply.

Arnall said he told Truman that it may be necessary to call Congress back into special session "if food prices continue to get out of hand and skyrocket."

Not Enough Funds
The price boss told reporters Truman "was very attentive—he said he was quite concerned about the rising prices." Arnall added that he also discussed with the President "the inadequate controls law written just before the end of the session of Congress."

Arnall said he told Truman that "we need a stronger law to control prices." He said he suggested that the act is "very weak due to crippling amendments." Among these factors he mentioned the decontrol by Congress of fruits and vegetables in raw and processed forms.

He also mentioned that the Office of Price Stabilization (OPS) is unable to do what he called an effective job because of a slash by Congress in its operating funds. Beginning now and September 1 OPS must release more than half of its 12,000 employees in Washington and in about 100 field offices.

"With a skeleton crew in office, the job of inflation control just can't be done," Arnall said.

FACES CODE CHARGE
A ten-day notice will be sent to Edward L. Shratwieser, Gettysburg R. 2, by Justice of the Peace John H. Baschore on a charge of failing to have a current inspection sticker on his car. The charge was filed by state police of the Gettysburg substation.

Here And There News Collected At Random

The "Little Pentagon" being dug in the mountains near Fountaineau isn't any more of a secret than the atom bomb, according to one of the workers. He said there isn't any "hush-hush" stuff about the project and that workers come and go almost at will.

He said that the two entrances are semi-circular in design. One large tunnel, V-shaped, extends the length of the tunnel. Five chambers have been dug off the main tunnel, almost in the center. They are 300 feet long. The main tunnel is 50 feet wide he said. Two ventilating shafts furnish fresh air. There are two power plants and one reserve tunnel. The five chambers have connecting tunnels.

Another worker said the main tunnel was 35 to 60 feet wide, 50 feet high; that it has 13 branches, each 200 feet long and 50 feet high. He said the interior has been sprayed with concrete and that the floor will be of tile, gravel and sand. He said that a railroad will be operated inside.

Coal Is Russia's most precious commodity, but try as it will, it hasn't been able to get enough of it out of the ground. Even with the stepped-up schedules it has placed on mines and miners, it is producing no more in a year than United States can turn out in a normal seven-month period. The situation seems to be as bad in satellite nations, where Soviet-dominated governments have taken to threats to squeeze out more production. In Poland, whose entire coal production is less than two-thirds that of West Virginia, Mining Minister Niesporek has warned that the work rules in coal pits will hereafter "remind one of military discipline."

Emmitsburg Artist To Exhibit In New York After Two-Year Tour Of France, Spain, Italy

"There are no specific highlights in my stay of two years in Europe," said Miss Patricia Topper, Emmitsburg, young American artist who returned to her native land aboard the superliner, United States, arriving in New York Tuesday, July 15, after traveling 3,000 miles in three days. "All are fondly treasured memories."

Pat, a native of Glenn Elynn, Ill., a suburb of Chicago, had gone to France in the autumn of 1950 to attend L'Ecole de Beaux Arts, Paris. In describing her first impressions of the French capital, she says: "When I arrived in Paris the trees were tinged with gold, the odor of roasting chestnuts tinged the chill air along the Seine, and in the parks the children were sailing their toy boats while their nurses knitted woollens and basked in the last warming rays of the summer sun."

It was early in October and a melon haze gave a dream-like aspect to the city. Pat, with the evaluating eye of the artist, took a second look at the city and felt that it was very much like our own big cities, only "leveled three quarters of the way down."

"After looking for some of our modern conveniences which we take for granted," she remarked, "I looked on Paris as a filthy, ancient city that I kept expecting, on awakening each day, to find tumbled down in a pile of rubble."

But the artistic young woman had

Greeks Fire On Bulgarians Who Had Ignored Ultimatum

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — Greek troops opened fire this morning on Bulgarian soldiers on the Greek-claimed border island of Gamma, in the Evros River, the Greek General Staff announced.

A communiqué said the Greek fire—from machineguns and mortars—was not returned by the troops from Greece's Soviet satellite northern neighbor.

The attack began at 8:30 a.m. (130 a. m. EST).

An Istanbul dispatch said that a top Turkish official at Adrianople, Turkish border town 10 miles from Gamma, reported that the firing continued for about an hour and a half, stopping around 10 a. m.

The attack came after Bulgarian troops had been noticed on the island during last night, the announcement said. Earlier last night the general staff had issued a communiqué saying no Bulgars had been seen on the island after Greek ultimatum demanding that all Bulgarian troops quit Gamma by 8 a. m. yesterday.

Greek diplomatic sources in Istanbul described the incident as local, one of a series of flare-ups in the area over the past five years. The Gamma dispute arose when the Evros changed its course. The Greeks insisted the boundary remained the same. The Bulgarians argued it shifted with the river and part of the newly created island was theirs. The Evros rises in Bulgaria southeast of Sofia. It flows along the Greek-Bulgarian border and the Greek-Turkish border and finally into the Aegean Sea.)

Jet Explodes On U. S. Carrier In Korean Waters, Killing 8

WASHINGTON (AP)—An explosion of a jet plane aboard the U. S. carrier Boxer in Korean waters killed eight men and injured an unannounced number of others, the Navy reported today.

Twelve jet planes were destroyed by raging fires that followed the explosion. Helicopters and lifeboats picked up 63 crewmen driven overboard by the flames.

A naval officer said the 27,000-ton carrier, which normally carries a crew of 2,900 officers and men, suffered the accident about 50 miles off the coast of Korea Tuesday night (Wednesday Korean time).

No enemy action was involved. The officer who reported the fatalities said he did not know how many men were injured. He said damage to the ship was comparatively slight, and repairs will be made in the Korean theater of operations.

Just what caused the jet plane to explode was not known, officials said. It is believed that an accumulation of gases built up after a landing, and caused the blast. The plane at the time was on the hangar deck.

The fire which followed was described as "bad."

YOUNG FARMERS MAY ENTER TALK CONTEST OCT. 15

Plans for a "Country Talk Meet," for young farmers, to be held in connection with the annual meeting of the Adams County Farmers Association, were outlined Wednesday evening at a meeting of the executive committee of the farmers' group held at the Adams Electric Cooperative offices, rear of N. Stratton St.

The contest will be open to any person between the ages of 18 and 26 who resides on a farm in the county. Each person in the contest will give a five-minute talk on "Who Shall Speak For Farmers?" The winner will represent the county in the contest to be held at the state convention of the Pennsylvania Farmers' Association at Harrisburg November 20.

The local contest will be held at the county group's annual meeting October 15. The place for the meeting and other details are to be worked out at a meeting of the executive committee to be held at the Adams Electric Cooperative building September 8.

Cancel Picnic Plans
Those wishing to enter the speaking contest can obtain background material for their talk from the Pennsylvania Farmers' Association, 839 Market St., Lemoyne, Paul Le-were, president of the Adams County Farmers, said.

The contest is being held, Lerew said, "to provide an additional opportunity for young farm men and women to gain experience in the art of expression. The contest is open to all farm youth, whether their parents are members of the county farmer's association or not."

Plans to hold a picnic for the membership in August were cancelled, with the group expressing the hope that a joint picnic can be arranged for next year for the members of the Adams, Franklin and Cumberland Farmers Associations.

A discussion was held on the liquid fuel tax refund due farmers, with the committee reminding farmers that they should file the forms for the refund now. The county group prepared a report for the Pennsylvania Farmers Association showing that the local unit now has a membership of 167.

Sabres Down Four MIGs And Damage Five

SEOUL, Korea (AP) — The U. S. Fifth Air Force said its Sabre jet pilots today shot down four Russian-made jets and damaged five in the fourth straight day of jet battles over North Korea.

On the ground, grenade-tossing South Korean infantrymen won back a Central Front height called Capitol Hill three hours after they had lost it at dawn. A U. S. Eighth Army briefing officer said it was the sixth time in two days that the steep hill had changed hands.

Today's toll of Communist jets boosted the Reds' losses to 15 MIGs destroyed and 19 damaged in four days. U. S. losses, if any, will be announced later in a weekly summary.

One MIG was shot down and one damaged in two battles near the Yalu River around noon. Two more were destroyed in a battle near Anju. Sabres shot down one and damaged three in a clash south of Sinuiju, in Northwest Korea.

Sweltering Heat
Fiercely charging Chinese troops backed by heavy artillery fire seized rugged Capitol Hill about 5 a. m. after losing about 200 dead and wounded. But soldiers of the South Korean First Regiment swept back up the rugged slopes. U. N. artillerymen and warplanes helped keep the Communists at bay.

The see-saw battles for Capitol Hill were fought in sweltering heat. Yesterday was the hottest day of the year—106 degrees—at some places on the front.

The Eighth Army briefing officer said another South Korean unit pushed back a Chinese platoon trying to grab an advance post to the southwest of Capitol's main knob in eight hours of hard fighting today. Action was reported light on the Eastern and Western Fronts.

VET, PEN-PAL VISIT SPECIAL SPOT ON BAY

DINGLE, Ireland (P)—Former GI Frank Hayostak and milkmaid Breda O'Sullivan walked today to the spot on Dingle Bay where the bottle that started their romance washed ashore seven years ago.

Only the seagulls knew what they talked about—but tourists and slyly winking villages thought they had a pretty good idea. As far as this village in Southwest Ireland is concerned, this is romance with a capital R—just like they sing about in the old ballads.

Hayostak and pretty Miss O'Sullivan, 24 and blue-eyed, gave the villagers the ship and went motor-boat on the storied lakes of Killarney. "It was a lovely day for them," one villager said. The weather was perfect.

Her Parents Smiling
The shy, hand-holding couple would not say whether they were talkative to marry. They were only talkative with each other. Her parents weren't saying much either, but they smiled when the idea of marriage was mentioned to them.

For generations most marriages in this part of Ireland have been arranged by the families of the boy and girl. But one feature of this system has died out in recent years. No longer does a marriage broker serve as a go-between for couples wishing to become engaged.

Hayostak, a husky 27-year-old steelworker from Johnstown, Pa., flew to Ireland Tuesday. He plans to stay until Aug. 21.

A Very Special Place
While returning home on a troopship seven years ago, Hayostak put his name in a bottle and tossed it over the side.

He said: "I think the ship must have been 1,000 miles at sea when I did it."

Miss O'Sullivan found the bottle on the beach here and she and the former soldier began a lengthy correspondence.

That quiet beach seemed a very special place to them today.

SYNGMAN RHEE RE-ELECTED BY HUGE MAJORITY

PUSAN, Korea (P)—Aging President Syngman Rhee was swept back into office by an overwhelming majority in nearly complete unofficial returns from the Republic of Korea's first direct election of chief executives.

Rhee's choice for vice president—Ham Tai, Yung, a little known Presbyterian minister—piled up a commanding lead over eight opponents in late returns from Tuesday's election.

The 77-year-old Rhee puttered in the garden of his palatial presidential residence in Seoul as the vote count, gathered over police communications channels, assured his return to office for four years.

Inauguration Aug. 15
The inauguration is set for Aug. 15—fourth anniversary of the republic—and probably will be held in Seoul's war-damaged capital.

Returns from 161 of 163 counting places gave Rhee 4,969,299 votes to 762,772 for Cho Bong Am, vice chairman of the National Assembly and former Communist leader; 748,945 for Lee Shi Yung, former president, and 241,489 for Hugh Cynn, former ambassador to Japan.

Until Rhee forced some constitutional changes in June, the president was elected by the one-house National Assembly.

Rhee, known to the world as the founder of the Korean republic, spent 40 years in exile while Japan ruled Korea. He was elected first president of the republic in 1948.

STEVENSON TO ATTEND CABINET MEET TUESDAY

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (P)—Gov. Stevenson will be able to try out the White House chairs for size when he comes here next Tuesday to sit in on a meeting with President Truman and the Cabinet.

The meeting also will give Stevenson a chance to try out some of the Cabinet members for size. Some of them, in addition to Truman, are bound to go out and campaign for him and the party.

Not that he'd keep the President's Cabinet if he won the election. It would be unusual if he did. It took Truman time but one by one he replaced with his own men the Cabinet he inherited from President Roosevelt.

Fears Truman Contact

Although he's been respectful toward the President, Stevenson apparently feels it's important to him and his chances for success not to be identified too closely with Truman.

He's taken some pains to say he's his own master, running his own campaign. After the Tuesday meeting, his critics may need him by saying Truman has now taken him in tow.

If he's needed enough it would not be surprising if Stevenson came out with another statement, direct or implied, that he's still his own master.

The President, who offered to take off his coat and make the now familiar whistle—stop campaign for the governor, is probably still waiting for word from Stevenson on what he wants the President to do, and how.

Not Well Known

The White House meeting will give them a chance to talk that one over while at the same time demonstrating friendliness between them. The meeting can serve another purpose also.

It will help keep the national spotlight on Stevenson. While he was the choice of the professional politicians at the Chicago convention, he is certainly under the handicap, and knows it, of not being well-known to the voting public outside Illinois.

That may be the main reason why almost every day since the convention he, or someone connected with his headquarters in Springfield, has been sounding off with something that gets into print.

SATCHEL PAIGE PITCHES BROWNS TO 1-0 VICTORY

By JACK HAND

Associated Press Sports Writer
Old Satchel still has it.
Even if he is "43 going on 49," as some folks say, Satchel Paige still has the stuff to bewilder big league hitters. Let there be no doubt about it.

Satchel chose to desert the St. Louis bullpen last night for a starting role—the second time he'd tried it this year.

Nine Strikeout Innings
Even youngsters will in the late innings but not Paige. Locked in a 0-0 duel with Detroit's Virgil Trucks, he pitched nine shutout innings. After Trucks gave way to a pinch-hitter in the 10th and Hal White took over, Paige still was in there throwing goose eggs at the Tigers. In the 10th, 11th and 12th.

Bob Nieman's bases-loaded single with two out in the 12th finally got him home with a 1-0 win, his eighth of the year. The boxscore showed only seven hits for the Tigers—six of them singles. Satchel walked only two and struck out nine in his brilliant effort.

Senators Beat Yankees
Walt Masterson pitched the Senators to a 6-4 victory over the New York Yankees, striking out 11.

The loss shrunk the Yanks' lead to three games because Cleveland won its day game from Chicago, 7-1, for Early Wynn's 13th victory. Rain washed out the Boston at Philadelphia night game in the American. And the Philadelphia at Boston two-night double header in the National was also rained out.

Cards Coming Up
Brooklyn and New York, still weary from their midnight struggle of Tuesday, got in one inning at the Polo Grounds before rain forced a postponement, the Dodgers leading at the time 1-0 on Billy Cox's home run off Max Lanier.

Eddie Stanky's St. Louis Cardinals, making up ground in leaps and bounds, pulled within nine games of Brooklyn by knocking off Pittsburgh twice, 7-2 in 10 innings and 3-2. The Cards have won 10 of their last 13 games.

Turk Lown pitched the Chicago Cubs to a 5-3 win over Cincinnati after replacing Paul Minner in the first inning. Lown contributed a triple to a three-run rally in the sixth when Herm Wehmeier was knocked out with his ninth loss.

Carter Called For Training
Bill Carter, 248 S. Washington St., will be given a spring tryout with the Harrisburg Senators, the local center fielder was told after playing with the Senators this past week.

Carter, who worked with the Pittsburgh Pirates last May, received a letter from the Philadelphia Athletics Baseball Association to report to the Harrisburg Senators last week. He played with the team at Harrisburg Wednesday evening and then went on the road with the Senators to Sunbury last Thursday and Friday. He returned to Harrisburg for games on the Island Saturday and Sunday and then was released. He was informed by the general manager of the club that he would receive word from the Senators to be taken to spring training camp with them.

Ronnie Necciai, 19, Called By Pirates

PITTSBURGH (P)—Ronnie Necciai, 19-year-old righthand hurler who started the baseball world a few months ago when he struck out 27 batters in pitching a no-hitter for the Bristol (Tenn.) Twins of the Class D Appalachian League, has been called up by the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Necciai's call from nearby Monongahela is a shoo-in to attract fans to Forbes Field if he shows anything near the class he has in the minors.

Necciai's contract has been purchased from the Bucs' New Orleans club in the Southern Association. If everything goes according to plan, he will be used against the Chicago Cubs Sunday.

Satterfield Wins Split Decision

CHICAGO (P)—A rematch booked for Philadelphia was brewing today after Chicago's Bob Satterfield, a 7-2 underdog, defeated Harold Johnson in a battle of power-punching light-heavyweights.
Johnson, 23, a Philadelphia product and No. 3 light-heavy contender, said after last night's televised scrap at Chicago Stadium that he would welcome another chance at

DELAYED RACE DUE TODAY AT GOSHEN TRACK

GOSHEN, N. Y. (P)—Sixteen finely tuned horses bring their argument for the three-year-old trotting championship down to Bill Cane's triangular-shaped Good Time Park track today—weather permitting.

Rain interrupted their plans to settle the argument yesterday, turning the racing strip into sticky, holding mud. It still was coming down early today, and plenty of sunshine was needed to forestall another postponement.

It was the second straight year that rain had forced postponement of the trotting horse derby. And not since 1927 has there been more than a one day delay. That year it rained all week at Syracuse and the stake finally was raced off at Lexington.

Odds Unchanged

But the weather didn't make any change in the odds. Duke of Lullwater from the barns of W. T. Candler of Decatur, Ga., and driven by 32-year-old Johnny Simpson remained the 3 to 1 choice, to take the best of three heats.

The Duke held the top spot in the advance odds even though the two setbacks he received last year while winning the two-year-old title were over this same track. He has been whipped twice this year.

All four of the beatings were given him by Hit Song, the 4 to 1 second choice. Hit Song, with Harry Pownall in the driver's seat, carries the hopes of three of the most prominent men in the sport—E. Roland Harriman and Ebbey Gerry of New York and Lawrence Sheppard of Hanover Pa., president of the United States Trotting Association.

CARDS SPANK HAPLESS BUGS

PITTSBURGH (P)—The St. Louis Cardinals scored five runs in the 10th inning last night to beat the Pittsburgh Pirates, 7-2, in the first game of a two-night doubleheader, then edged the cellar dwellers, 3-2 in the nightcap.

The Pirates collected only three hits in the first contest and seven in the second.

Al Brazie and Eddie Yuhas turned in brilliant relief performances. Brazie was credited with the first-game victory and Yuhas saved the second contest for starter Cloyd Boyer. The defeats were charged to Ted Wilks and Forest Main.

the unpredictable Satterfield. Satterfield, a mustachioed Negro from Chicago's southside who has a knockout blow and something of a glass chin, needed the win last night to get back into good standing in the 175 pound division after losing his last three starts.

It was a 10 round split decision with Referee Tommy Gilmore voting 51-49 for Satterfield, Judge Edward Hintz 54-46 for the same fighter and Judge John Bray voting 52-48 for Johnson.

Junior Phillies Defeat "Athletics"

PHILADELPHIA (P)—The American Legion Junior "Phillies" came from behind last night and rode to a 9-8 victory over their rivals, the Junior Athletics, on the tail of a long fly to left field in the top of the eighth.

Walter Anderson's drive to left field scored Bill Curry, of Swarthmore, giving the "Phillies" the winning run in the ninth American Legion Junior all-star game at Shibe Park.

Elvin Pfautz, of Ephrata, Pa., was chosen the most valuable player in the game after he held the "Phillies" to three scoreless innings.

The Junior "Athletics" scored four runs in the second, one in the fourth and three in the fifth innings.

The "Phillies" rallied in the sixth and scored two runs on an inside the park home run by Walter Anderson of Philadelphia. They scored five in the seventh and once in the eighth, tying the score.

MIDGET TEAMS PLAY IN YORK

YORK, Pa. (P)—Eleven teams from three states will compete here Friday through Sunday in the third annual Mason-Dixon Invitational midget baseball tournament.

Nearly 175 boys will be battling for the team championship as well as individual trophies sponsored by Ken Raffensberger of the Cincinnati Reds and Jack Merson of the Pittsburgh Pirates.

A feminine note was injected into the tournament with the naming of actress Denise Darcel as honorary umpire-in-chief.

The defending champion, Mannheim, Pa., Chix is expected to face stiff opposition from such strong teams as the unbeaten Philadelphia Shelmire Club, Greenbelt, Md., Washington, D. C. area champions for the third straight year, and St. Mary's Magdalene of New York City.

Other teams are entered from Allentown, Gettysburg, Johnstown, and Lehigh as well as the host York City All-Stars and a York county representative, either Wrightsville or Dallastown.

The tournament was organized by Harry McLaughlin, a York newspaperman to present baseball competition for small fry using straight baseball rules.

Hurls Two-Hitter To Beat Jamestown

By The Associated Press
Jay Bjornsen of the Olean Oilers blazed through the first five innings without allowing a hit and proceeded to dish out just two singles as he set down the Jamestown Falcons, 5-0.

The second-place Hamilton Cards took advantage of the Falcons' defeat by laying it on the Hornell Dodgers, 10-2.

Over at Bradford, the hometown Phils defeated Wellsville, 4-2, when Tom Kane's single in the 7th scored Ken Pack with the clincher.

Dave Brennan and Vern Pillar led a 13-hit Batavia attack against Corning as the Clippers outgunned the A's, 5-3.

CHANGE START OF PLAY-OFFS IN SOUTH PENN

The South Penn Baseball League today announced postponement of the semi-finals of its championship playoffs until August 17.

Originally planning to begin the Shaughnessy playoffs this coming Sunday, league officials Wednesday night decided that the weather conditions have made it impossible for all postponed games to be played prior to that time.

As a result the title series was postponed a week to give the teams another week in which to play the games washed out by the weather.

Granite To Play

League Secretary Chester Shriver moved Wednesday to halt a rumor that the Granite team is planning to forfeit the remainder of its games. Shriver said he had been in contact with team officials, and Granite plans to play its remaining contests. He also added that league officials have not as yet been officially notified and hence have been able to take no action on a disputed game between Granite and Hanover last Sunday.

Shriver said he had received word that the game had been called off because of wet grounds. Since then, he said, he has had a report from Hanover claiming that Granite forfeited the contest by failing to place a team on the field.

He announced Thursday, August 21, as the date for a meeting of all managers of the league at the Albert J. Lentz American Legion home, Baltimore St., to complete plans for the final play-off series.

Three Homers Beat Binghamton Triplets

By The Associated Press

Russ Sullivan of the Williamsport Tigers swatted three home runs and a double during a twin bill at home last night, as the Tigers rose from the dormat to smite the Binghamton Triplets, 5-4 and 4-2.

At Schenectady, the Blue Jays took both ends of a doubleheader from the Elmira Pioneers, 3-1 and 10-2. First baseman Carl Bush of the Blue Jays poled his ninth and tenth home runs of the year.

The Scranton Miners edged the Hartford Chiefs, 3-1, and moved into a tie for fifth place with the Pioneers.

The Albany Senators and the Reading Indians were rained out at Reading.

Emmitsburg TOWN'S GRANGE AND COMMUNITY FUND AID FAMILY

Two organizations in the Emmitsburg area, the Emmitsburg Community Fund and the Emmitsburg Grange, have contributed support and aid to the Franklin B. Brawner family which was burned out of its home last Tuesday morning.

The Brawner family of five was left homeless and without clothing when fire destroyed their home on the St. Anthony's-Motters Station Road last week.

The Emmitsburg Community Fund went into action immediately and secured clothing for the entire family on the day of the fire. Paul A. Keepers, president of the organization, headed the drive to secure clothing.

Mr. Keepers said this was the first case of a family left stranded by fire since the fund was organized three years ago. The fund was designed to raise money and support for families of the area in emergency situations.

Grange Starting Drive

The Emmitsburg Grange has also begun a program to help the family build a new home and furnish it. The organization is soliciting food, furniture and kitchen utensils.

Individual members of the farm organization are also contributing

High Overhead Makes Things Very Tough For Top U. S. Panhandler

OKLAHOMA CITY (P)—Willie the Panhandler told wide-eyed policemen yesterday he thinks Oklahoma City people have hearts of gold.

Willie, who is probably the nation's best panhandler, said he came to Oklahoma City from Dallas Tuesday because things were getting slow in the Texas city. So slow, in fact, he couldn't afford to keep up the payments on his new Lincoln and give a young chauffeur $35 a week to drive it for him.

His first day in Oklahoma netted him $64, he said, and yesterday was going about the same.

Paralyzed For Years

Willie is 34, and has been paralyzed from the waist down since childhood because of infantile paralysis. He travels in a deplated little wagon which he propels with his own time to help erect a new residence for the family. The home, located to the northwest of Emmitsburg on Route 32, was begun before the fire by Brawner, and the foundation had been completed.

Cement blocks for the house construction, which were needed, were to be delivered today, and it is understood that members of the grange will contribute their own time to erecting the house.

The Brawner family is at present scattered among relatives and friends. Edgar G. Emerick is master of the Emmitsburg Grange.

Two scout car officers arrested Willie when his chauffeur tried to change $50 worth of nickels and dimes into paper money.

"My overhead with the chauffeur is $283 a month before I get a bite to eat or buy my clothes," wailed Willie. "A dollar today is worth about 30 cents normally."

Plans Vacation

Police officers said they wouldn't file charges if Willie left town and went back to Dallas.

But the nation's number one panhandler had different ideas. He said he thought he would have his chauffeur swing around by way of Chicago and both would take a little vacation before returning to the Texas city.

Taylor, of Bendersville, Republican nominee for congress from the Adams-York-Franklin district, has received an invitation from the Republican National Committee to attend the ceremonies incident to notification of Herbert Hoover of his renomination by the Republican National Convention for the office of president. Today's Talk

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

TO BE WANTED AND LIKED

To gain success, renown, or wealth, is not the great purpose of life. To be wanted and liked is so much greater than any of these. I was on a selling trip in the south when one morning I read of the death of Vachel Lindsay. That death by suicide remains as one of the most tragic in American literature. Lindsay was a great poet. It is said he took his own life because he felt that he was not wanted or liked.

Had Lindsay written but one poem — "Abraham Lincoln Walks At Midnight" — his fame would still remain secure, but he wrote any number of great poems that will live for so long as thoughts from the heart live.

How many there are all about us, living silent courageous lives, yet with a hunger in their hearts because — like Lindsay — they feel they are not wanted and liked. Our usefulness and happiness rest largely upon being appreciated, loved and wanted around. It is so simple to give encouragement, and takes only a matter of the will to do so.

This encouragement, however, should be given at the right time. Had Lindsay received this earlier, we might have had him with us today, for he loved his Springfield, his beautiful family, and Oh how he loved America! A thing so simple as that of sending a letter to a soldier boy, or loved friend, may work a miracle! How quickly the dumb animal reacts to a little kindness and love, but how much more a human being.

There is something very great about the genius as an artist. Many a one, because of his innate pride and integrity, refuses to sacrifice that art by playing up to popularity or personal gain. It may make that one not wanted and liked, but he will have preserved his immortal soul, as Lindsay did.

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "Localities." Protected, 1952 by The George Matthew Adams Service

GOOD CITIZEN

I can't make a speech and I can't write a song.

I have little of talent or skill. As a citizen I am just one of the throng.

But the little I can do I will.

What's best for my country I want to assist.

Although I am only one man, And my name won't appear on the leadership list, I will do the little I can.

My country, and our way of life to defend.

As long as I live it's my plan To work for them, fight for them, down to the end By doing whatever I can. (Copyright, 1952, Edgar A. Guest)

THREE FOREIGN MINISTERS PUT PACT IN FORCE

HONOLULU (AP) — Foreign ministers of the U. S., Australia and New Zealand today launched the first formal peacetime system of military co-operation among the three nations.

However, they adopted a "go slow" policy on bringing other non-Communist Pacific nations into the security organization. That would be premature, said a communique issued after they adjourned their three-day conference last night. But they promised that other countries would be consulted closely through regular diplomatic channels.

The foreign minister of one interested nation not present, Joaquin Elizalde of the Philippines, said in Manila his country and Japan may join the ANZUS powers soon in a five-power conference to co-ordinate Pacific defense against communism. He did not say who would take the initiative.

All Very Happy
U. S. Secretary of State Dean Acheson told reporters the ANZUS meetings had been "very intimate, very informal," and "we are all very happy."

Key step taken to implement last year's three-power treaty signed in San Francisco was the creation of a joint military staff to meet periodically at Pearl Harbor, Melbourne and Wellington, N. Z.

Adm. Arthur W. Radford, U. S. Pacific Fleet commander, was designated American representative to the military staff. Australia and New Zealand will name theirs later.

Approval Needed
A spokesman said all recommendations of the ANZUS military staff must be approved by the nations themselves.

On the question of dealings with other Pacific nations, the communique stated this was a goal set forth in the treaty itself.

"Recognizing that the council is just beginning to evolve its own tripartite organization and program, it came to the conclusion that it would be premature at this early stage in its own development to attempt to establish relationships with other states or regional organizations."

Red McCarthy and his orchestra, of Harrisburg, playing a return engagement, will present free concerts in the park bandshell on Sunday at 2 and 7 o'clock. In case of inclement weather, the programs will be transferred to the park theater.

TOWN SCHOOLS
OPEN SEPT. 4;
REGISTRATION
ON AUGUST 22

The public schools of Littlestown will open for the 1952-53 term on Thursday, September 4, as announced at the monthly meeting of the executive board of the Littlestown Joint School System on Tuesday evening in the office of Supervising Principal Paul E. King. A schedule for the coming school year and the calendar of extra-curricular activities was approved.

Mr. King presented his monthly report in which it was revealed that a communication has been received from Supervising Principal Wilbur Cassel, of the York Springs High School, requesting withdrawal from the Laurel Football Conference. This request, which was granted, effects Littlestown in that there is no football game scheduled for October 17. It is hoped to secure another opponent for that date.

On Friday, August 22, there will be a final registration for all beginners who will reach the age of six years before Feb. 1, 1953, and who will attend the joint first grade. The registration will take place in the public grade school building, E. King St. The teachers will be at the schools from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. and from 1 to 3 p.m., as they were for the first registration in June. All teachers of the jointure will hold a pre-school faculty meeting at the high school on September 2, 7:15 p.m. Arrangements are now in progress for a football camp to be conducted in a similar manner to that of last year, when the candidates will both eat and sleep in the school building, for the week of August 25. A kick-off banquet, which was planned to replace the annual spring athletic award banquet, will be held on Friday, September 5, for football players, officials and parents in the high school cafeteria.

Bus Signs To Go Up
The school has received bus stop signs and an appointment has been made with the state highway department for their erection the week of August 18. Mr. King informed the board that three teachers of the jointure will qualify for master's degrees or the equivalent at the beginning of the school term. They are Maurice E. Bream, Miss Leora L. Held and James L. Rhoades.

Salaries and bills for the month were approved for payment and the treasurer, George W. Worley, presented the following report: July receipts, $12,091.76; expenditures, general control, $89.50; instruction, $8,616.77; auxiliary agencies, $693.33; coordinate activities, $473.63; operation of plants, $362.87; maintenance of plants, $53.85; fixed charges, $213.20; total, $11,173.15.

Those in attendance at the executive board meeting included Ray Reichart, Clayton Harget, Elmer E. Furlow, Glenn Bowers, Lloyd E. Crouse, Charles Shilt, George Worley, Arthur E. Buehler, the president, Paul E. King, supervising principal, and Henry E. Waltman, secretary.

Teacher Elected
Immediately following the executive board meeting, the joint boards of the Littlestown Joint School System met at which time Mr. King reported to the board on the session held on July 24, with the state department at Harrisburg, between Paul V. Long, of Starr and Long, architects, and the school building committee. The meeting was for the purpose of discussing the proposed new elementary school building and a preliminary drawing was submitted. Slight alterations will have to be made and another meeting has been set for September 17.

A report on the bus routes and schedules for the coming school year was submitted by Charles Shilt. Elmer E. Furlow reported for the teacher committee advising the board that a letter has been received from Robert Mannetti, who has been elected as a teacher in the elementary schools, regretting his inability to accept the position. The board elected Richard Thomas, Hanover, who was graduated from Gettysburg College in the spring, to teach mathematics and science and to assist with athletics in the junior-senior high school, at a salary of $2,500. Several vacancies still remain to be filled and it is expected that these faculty positions will be filled within the next week or ten days.

The secretary was instructed to advertise for bids for a school bus and for installation of an emergency lighting system.

Held Week Early
Present at the meeting of the jointure board, held a week in advance, were Arthur E. Buehler, president, John Schwartz, Charles Shilt and Glenn Bowers, Mt. Joy Township; Bernard Murren and Ray Reichart, Mt. Pleasant Township; George W. Worley and David S. Little, Union Township; Carl H. Baumgardner, Lloyd E. Crouse, Karl P. Bankert and Henry E. Waltman, of the Borough board, and Clayton Harget, Wade Brown, Elmer E. Furlow and William Feeser, of the Germany Township board.

The Alpha Fire Company carnival was completely rained out last night. Only a few people were on the grounds, but the stands were not opened. The special entertainment for this evening will be Jimmy Johnson, television star, with his trained doves and the wonder dog, Prince. On Friday evening, the Littlestown High School Band, under the direction of Paul A. Harner, will

IS GIVEN NEGRO

GREENSBURG, Pa. (AP)—Joseph S. Phillips, 22-year-old New Derry Negro, is under the death penalty today for the $17,000 payroll murder of a brick company paymaster.

Three Westmoreland County judges returned a verdict of first degree murder against Phillips last night after an all-day hearing at which nearly a score of witnesses, mostly company employees, testified.

Phillips merely shrugged his shoulders at the verdict. No date was set for formal sentencing.

The bespectacled Negro had pleaded guilty to the pistol death of Morton W. Crain, 41-year-old paymaster and foreman at the McFeely Brick Co., Derry Township. Crain was shot in the back April 4 as he dashed into the company's

NEW YORK (AP)—The Bethlehem Steel Co., last night became the second major company to complete final contract terms with the CIO United Steelworkers.

The announcement was made jointly by Philip Murray, president of both the CIO and the steelworkers union, and J. M. Larkin, Bethlehem's vice president in charge of industrial and public relations.

The agreement will run until June 30, 1954, with a wage-reopening clause effective June 30, 1953.

The Bethlehem pact calls for a wage increase of at least 12½ cents an hour with higher boosts

RAINMAKERS OR NATURE BRING DROUGHT RELIEF

By The Associated Press
Nature—or professional rainmakers—brought crop-reviving storms to Connecticut's dust-dry tobacco and vegetable farms Tuesday and more scattered showers sprinkled the drought-stricken South.

Less than 18 hours after a firm hired by farmers seeded the clouds with chemicals, electrical storms raced from west to east across Connecticut.

The storms dumped from 1/2 to 1 1/2 inches of rain over most of the state.

More scattered light showers were reported from Virginia to the Carolinas, Georgia and Alabama.

Agriculture Department officials arranged a meeting in Atlanta Wednesday and today to discuss means of getting aid to farmers of drought-stricken Southeastern states.

FACES COURT ON MANSLAUGHTER

A 23-year-old Maryland truck driver was held for Adams County court Tuesday night by Justice of the Peace Gerald L. Orndorff, New Oxford R. 1, on charges of involuntary manslaughter and aggravated assault and battery by car as the result of an accident in which his wife, Wanda, 22, was fatally injured at Cross Keys on July 4.

Simon H. Harris, Cockeysville, who had been given a hearing before Squire Orndorff following a coroner's inquest in Hanover July 8, was released under $1,000 bond for his appearance in court. He was represented by Attorney Francis Yake Jr. After the hearing, Squire Orndorff said he would reserve his decision until Tuesday evening.

State police said Harris was driving north on the Hanover-Carlisle highway and passed a stop sign at the Cross Keys intersection. His car was hit on the right side by a vehicle operated west on the Lincoln Highway, by Roy E. Gross, 35, York.

At the inquest the jury found that "Mrs. Harris came to her death from an unavoidable accident."

GET PRICE INCREASE

WASHINGTON (AP)—Aluminum producers Tuesday won a ceiling price increase of one cent per pound in raw aluminum and five per cent on ingot and fabricated products.

The Office of Price Stabilization said Price Controls Chief Ellis Arnall had signed the order granting the boost and the details would be made public shortly.

SETS UP FOUNDATION

HARRISBURG (AP)—A foundation "for educational, benevolent and charitable purposes" endowed initially with income estimated at more than $200,000 annually was established Tuesday by Josiah W. (Joe) Kline, active in Dauphin County real estate, insurance and political affairs since 1896.

GOOD COOKIES PLEASE DADDY SAYS EDITOR

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

One way the youngsters in your family can show Dad their appreciation is to make him a box of special cookies. Have some packages of cookie mix on hand and let your small fry go to work. Recipes for rolled cookies are right on the box — all you have to do is to get out your fancy cookie cutters. Because this packaged buttertype cookie mix is blended by machine, the dough is so plastic that youngsters can handle it successfully; it does not stick, and it re-rolls easily.

For your own contribution to Dad's Cookie Box make up these delicious Roly Polies or Chocolate Nut Squares.

ROLY POLIES

Ingredients: One 14-ounce package cookie mix, 2 tablespoons water, one 6-ounce package (about 1 cup) semi-sweet chocolate pieces, 1/2 cup walnut meats, 3 tablespoons sugar, 1/4 teaspoon cinnamon.

Method: Empty cookie mix into large mixing bowl; sprinkle with water and add chocolate. Chop nuts fine and add. Knead well with hands. Take a rounded teaspoon of the dough and roll between palms of hands to form into small balls. Place on ungreased baking sheet about 1 inch apart. Bake in moderate (375 F.) oven 12 to 15 minutes, until lightly browned. (Cookies will spread and flatten slightly in baking.) Allow cookies to cool slightly on baking sheet. In small bowl mix sugar and cinnamon. When cookies are slightly cool roll each one in sugar-cinnamon and place on cake racks to cool completely. Makes 60 cookies. Store these crisp cookies in tightly covered container.

CHOCOLATE NUT SQUARE

Ingredients: 1 egg, 1 tablespoon water, 1/2 teaspoon vanilla, one 14-ounce package cookie mix, one 6-ounce package (about 1 cup) semi-sweet chocolate pieces, one-third cup walnut meats.

Method: Put egg, water, and vanilla in mixing bowl; beat just until yolk and white of egg are combined. Add cookie mix and two-third cup chocolate; with wooden spoon stir until blended. Turn into ungreased 9-inch square pan; spread with spatula to cover bottom of pan. With sharp knife chop remaining one-third cup chocolate

DECIDE FUTURE OF M'KELLAR AT POLLS TODAY

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Tennesseans swarmed around the state's 2,300-plus voting booths today, eager to cast ballots in heated primary races.

Their votes will decide the political futures of K. D. McKellar, 83-year-old dean of the Senate in point of service, and Gov. Gordon Browning, who is out for a third consecutive two-year term.

And they will determine, perhaps finally, what power remains in the hands of flowing-haired E. H. Crump, Memphis political leader whose grip on state-wide politics was broken four years ago by Browning and Sen. Estes Kefauver.

No Poll Tax Required

Predictions of cloudy weather and possible showers in the east and south apparently had little effect on voters determined to cast their ballots as soon as the polls opened at 9 a. m., local time. Voting ends at 4 p. m. in rural areas and 7 p. m. in the cities. For the first time in Tennessee history, voting was entirely free of poll tax requirements. A record registration of 1,339,259 was qualified to vote in the primary.

Rep. Gore Running

The 83-year-old McKellar, chairman of the powerful Appropriations Committee, faces his toughest opposition in decades in 44-year-old Rep. Albert Gore, whose Fourth District was eliminated by the state's 1951 Redistricting Act.

The governor's race possibly overshadows the senatorial contest inside Tennessee. Browning is opposed by Frank Clement, former attorney for the Public Utilities Commission; Clifford Allen Jr., Nashville attorney and businessman who was defeated by Browning two years ago, and Clifford Pierce, widely known Memphis businessman who is a comparative newcomer to politics.

Triplet Girls Are Born In Bloomsburg

BLOOMSBURG, Pa. (AP)—The first set of triplets delivered in the history of the Bloomsburg hospital are adjusting to life today, unaware of their historical significance.

The triplets, all girls, were born Tuesday to Mr. and Mrs. Carlton Young, of Fishing Creek Township, near Bloomsburg. Young, a veteran of World War II and the Korean War, is a carpet worker in Bloomsburg. Attending physician, Dr. D. Ernest Witt, said it was the first case of triplets in the records of Bloomsburg hospital. The Youngs have two other children, both girls.

Spitsbergen has been governed by Norway since 1925.

SOLDIER KILLED
LEBANON, Pa. (AP)—A car carrying five soldiers stationed at Indiantown Gap Military Reservation smashed into a parked truck Wednesday, killing one of the soldiers and critically injuring two others. Killed was M/Sgt. Harry H. Poshie, 21, of Pottsville, Pa., one of the passengers.

DEPORTATION OF EX-RED ORDERED

BOSTON (AP)—A Finnish-born 49-year-old mill worker of Wendell N. H., who says he signed a Communist party membership application in 1934 because "they told me they wanted to win a strike in which I was involved" was ordered deported yesterday.

Federal Judge Charles E. Wyzanski Jr., ruled "with reluctance" that Carl A. Latva, who signed the Communist application, paid 50 cents and "never heard from them again," must be deported to his native Finland.

Judge Wyzanski said that under the McCarran Act he was bound to uphold the deportation of Latva, so that no piece is larger than a small pea; chop walnuts in same fashion and mix with chocolate; sprinkle over batter. Bake in moderate (375 F.) oven 20 minutes. Cool; cut into 25 squares; store in tightly covered container.

Judge Wyzanski allowed Latva to remain free on bail of $2,000 unless U. S. Atty. George F. Garrity objects within a five day period.

Latva is expected to appeal to the United States Supreme Court.

Judge Wyzanski said that Latva believed the Communist party to be a "political party" and ruled

"To Latva's knowledge the Communist party did not advocate the violent overthrow of organized government. There was no evidence offered as to the program of practices of that party in 1934 or 1935."

WATCH LOST 30 YEARS

CENTRALIA, Ill. (AP)—Farmer William Buescher tells this ticking good yarn about his watch. Thirty years ago he was fixing fence on his Steelville farm and lost his 17-jewel pocket watch. This summer he was working in the same fence corner and found the watch. Its leather strap fell apart as he picked it up. But after the timepiece was cleaned and polished, he said it was in good running condition.

STONE PILLARS REPLACE FENCE AROUND CHURCH

Another step in the general plan of beautifying and improving the grounds surrounding Elias Evangelical Lutheran Church is being carried out with the removal of the old fence from the front of the church and parish house and replacing it with ornamental stone pillars to be connected with heavy chain.

The project, which was started several weeks ago, is progressing with the completion Tuesday of the footings for the 18 pillars. The pier work is being done by stone masons, John and James Lings. When the project is completed there will be six large 24 inch square pillars erected at the entrances to the church and parish house and parking lot and 12 smaller pillars, each 21 inches square.

Volunteers Save $300
The work of removing the old fence and pouring the footings for the pillars was done by volunteers from the congregation. The use of a tractor and post-hole digger was contributed by Edgar Emrich, a friend of the congregation. The estimated cost of the project is $1,500. The volunteer help will save an additional $300, it is estimated.

The council is in charge of the entire project with Charles L. Sharer as chairman. The pillars were offered to the members of the congregation last Sunday morning as memorials on the basis of $100 and $75 contributions. Since the announcement appeared in the church bulletin for the first time Sunday, they were all taken but six by Wednesday. These six are still being offered to the congregation for memorials and it is the hope of the council that they will all be taken in the very near future.

Members and guests joined the post for refreshments. Next meeting will be held on Tuesday evening, September 2.

little chance to know Paris just then, for she became ill shortly upon arrival. She was in a hotel in Paris and when the French physician announced that her bad cold was pneumonia, Chicago seemed very far away indeed. And so, instead of learning more about the land of "la fleur de lis," Miss Topper was packed off to the sun-bright coast of France which is close to the Basque country. Here she remained for several months, convalescing in a comfortable and friendly hotel in the coast town of St. Jean de Luz.

In January, 1951, Miss Topper set out for Madrid where she was welcomed with a world of beauty and a never-ending array of vivid subjects for her canvas.

Painted In Village
"Madrid," she declared, "reminded me, if you care for comparisons, of Philadelphia regarding its architecture. It is a city of amazing contrasts, both modern and ancient, cleanliness and filthiness, gaiety and sadness."

"In Almuñecar," she went on, "a

Beaux Arts. Now she speaks of France in a different tone. There her heart "lingered the longest," she said, with a look of remembering in her blue eyes. "There is something there, a part of its mystery which even the French cannot define clearly, which, once given a chance, claims a part of your soul to its heart and sings on with millions of others down through history, the glories of France, long after you have gone."

One of the artist's most enjoyable recollections of "la belle France," was the food and wine, both of which she describes as "superb." There the food is "cooked with such finesse and subtlety of seasoning that even the homely potato and simplest cut of meat was a delight to the eyes as well as to the palate."

In Paris, Pat learned to appreciate Picasso's earlier works and found herself inspired immensely by the Impressionists. A graduate of the Chicago Institute of Art, Miss Topper is specializing in portrait studies.

Belgium, Italy Next
Included in her itinerary was a visit to Ghent, in Belgium, which, little fishing village near Malaga, on the Mediterranean. I spent three months painting. Here was Spanish life at its simplest, the suffering heart of Spain, pathos, hopes, the way of life open to all those who cared to see. But most often tourists passed through with only a glimpse of disinterest at its seeming insignificance. Untouched with tourist trade, the natives looked upon their infrequent visitors with trust and open friendliness.

Speaking of the children of Spain, Miss Topper remembered "how they stole roses from gardens to put in her hair and often tossed them up on her balcony" as tokens of friendship. "I was embarrassed," she said, "for fear that I should be accused of promoting theft."

Other Memories Of Spain

She explained that life was hard in such a place as Almuñecar, living "two or three centuries behind the times." But the people were poignant in their simplicity and the dark-haired young woman was "touched to the heart," as she says, and she went to work, portraying the soul of Spain on canvas. She recalls that she "never saw a toy in all of Spain, yet the children were the gayest I have ever seen—laughing, dancing and singing along the beaches, overjoyed with life itself."

Of course, there are other memories of Spain. There were visits to Cadiz . . . Granada . . . Seville . . . and she remembers the procession during the Santa Semana (Holy Week) during which she made quick sketches of the ancient and sacred pageantry, trying to remember the exact shade of the flaming crimson . . . burnished gold . . . sapphire blue . . . of the ceremonial robes. Someday they would come alive again on canvas!

There is also the memory of the artist, Claude Samson, who worked with the American student for a year and a half. Together they worked and traveled, studying the works of world-renowned artists of all ages. La Prado in Madrid, especially, made a remarkable impression on the two young women. Pat fell in love with the style of Goya . . . El Greco . . . and Velasquez during her sojourn in Spain.

Returns To Paris
In July, 1951, she found herself again in Paris. This time she really became a student at L'Ecole Des she says, "is a very quaint medieval city, teeming in ancient history of the time when knights and Grimm's fairy tales existed. It has a little of the theatrical ambience—possible scenery for a Shakespearean play—streets narrow and cobbled inch their way between massive, grim stone fortresses, castles, town halls, churches and towers, dating from the Middle Ages."

"And Bruges dates back even farther into history and unreality," she revealed. "Here were the legendary swans floating along the picturesque canal of a lovely Gothic city. From the moment you enter the city across the ramp that bridges the canal like a moat that surrounds this medieval fortress, you are completely captured by these jewels of Belgium."

And then came Italy, which seems to be a highlight in her travels, although she did not admit it. "After seeing the original paintings of the Italian masters," she declared, "it was impossible to compare them with any reproductions. Even the tiniest, most insignificant church houses, I fell completely enraptured with the works of Fra Angelico and Giotto Botticelli. It is almost impossible to appreciate the ethereal quality and sensitive colors of these masters."

Audience With Pope
"A year would not be sufficient! The galleries in Florence and Rome are perhaps the richest in the world. My favorite gallery in Florence was that in the Chapel of Medici and, of course, it was thrilling at last to be before an original of Michelangelo and to feel with my hand a cold marble to be so alive."

"The height of my visit to Rome," she declared, "was my audience with the Holy Father. It is unforgettable!"

In looking back over the last two years, the artist fell into a reflective mood as she told us that she always "liked to compare Italy, Spain and France to the hours of the day—Italy as the sunrise, bathed in golden lights . . . Spain as broad daylight in its brilliant splash of color . . . and France as evening twilight in its fine, soft gray tones that descend on the soul like music and poetry."

To Exhibit In New York
"I had the good fortune to wind up my journeys on the maiden voyage of the United States," she smilingly told us. "We zipped along through the Atlantic as if jet-propelled. Perhaps the longest and hardest hours I spent were those last few when we waited in the harbor between Brooklyn and Staten Island all night with the knowledge that my family was waiting for me within a stone's throw of the ship."

"The Statue of Liberty rising majestically from the morning haze, shimmering above the river, was a welcome sight, indeed! I shall never forget the ovation heralding the approach of the 'new queen of the seas.' Planes roared overhead and other vessels in the harbor welcomed the blue ribbon ship with shrill whistles. Music sounded from bands on deck and on shore."

Pat is now living in Emmitsburg where her family moved while she was in Europe. She will prepare for an exhibition to be held in New York next year.

Down the Line

What's his name?

Can you recall the name of the most flamboyant soldier, poet, historian and explorer of the 16th Century? If not, it might help to know he is the man who laid down his axe to keep Queen Elizabeth's feet from getting wet. That's it, Sir Walter Raleigh! Despite all his great achievements, Sir Walter is best remembered for a single act of courtesy. Others will remember, too, if you are courteous and co-operative on the party line. Because courtesy is contagious, it helps everyone get better party-line service.

First TV star

The first TV star was former President Herbert C. Hoover. On April 7, 1927, Mr. Hoover, then Secretary of Commerce, was viewed in New York as he talked on the telephone from Washington. At the other end of the line was Walter S. Gifford, then president of A. T. & T. This was the world's first demonstration of television over a telephone line. It was the forerunner of today's great television industry, which operates over Bell System's Radio-Relay and Coaxial Cable facilities.

CINERARIAS AS HOUSE PLANTS

Cinerarias are excellent indoor plants for winter flowering. They are easily grown, free blooming, and are not nearly so temperamental about temperatures and humidity as many other favorite house plants. Because they are so easily grown from seed under home conditions, they may be treated as annuals and the old plants may be discarded after blooming ceases.

Cinerarias usually bought as florist specimens in late fall and brought into bloom indoors over winter are actually hybrid forms. And while these may be propagated by leaf layering and division, seed purchased fresh from hybridizers may be used to grow numerous new plants each summer. For this purpose seed should be sown in mid-August and again about the middle of September. From these two sowings, the latter for insurance against failure, the grower may develop scores of plants to give to friends or to sell as small potted specimens.

Seed should be sown in flat boxes or shallow pans, with free drainage stressed. The soil should consist of equal parts rich loam, finely sifted compost, and sand. This should be mixed well and firmed in the seed box or pan. Seed sown on the surface should be covered no more than one-eighth inch by sprinkling sand or sandy loam over it. The seed bed should be kept moist but never wet, with shade provided in a frame protected by muslin or on the north side of a wall or building.

As soon as seedlings develop two true leaves they should be pricked out and set in individual small pots in a soil consisting of rich loam supplemented by finely pulverized dry cattle manure gathered from a pasture after it is thoroughly weathered, plus sand or fine compost. As growth develops these should be moved to larger pots, never allowing them to suffer from root-binding. The final shift should be made to a 6-inch pot of the shallow type. The final growing soil should be composed of one part pulverized weathered cattle manure to 3 or 4 parts rich loam scraped from the under side of an old sod.

Cinerarias thrive under normal indoor conditions except that they will not tolerate high temperatures or sudden cold drafts. Both must be avoided. East, south and west windows are advised in order named, with the foliage always sheltered from direct sun when the midday rays are hot. The night temperature may drop into the middle or upper 40s without harm.

After plants are brought indoors they should be fed every week with manure water—enough cattle manure soaked in water to turn the water to a weak tea shade. This feeding should continue until the first flower buds form.

Perhaps the most critical stage in the life of a cineraria plant, with the exception of its indoor role, is the period after seedlings are moved to their individual pots. At this stage, especially in hot, dry weather, the most satisfactory growing place is an abandoned hotbed or coldframe, with sash sloping to the north and a muslin shield erected perpendicularly along the south side to provide all-day shade.

Of course, where a grower wants but one or two plants, it is advisable to buy them partly grown in late fall.

BRIEF NOTES ON DAYLILIES

Every flower grower who seeks another hardy, beautiful ornamental should consider the so-called daylily. Here is one of our most widely admired perennials yet it is seldom recognized and even when it is, prospective growers are unaware of the vast improvements made in varietal types in recent years and its general ease of culture. Here we offer a few facts about daylilies to help more readers to make the acquaintance of this fine member of our old-and-new ornamentals.

The daylily is the orange-colored lily seen often along highways and particularly around old abandoned farmhouses. Rarely is a well-managed, cultivated clump found. Truly this is a homeless orphan among fine flowers.

In nursery catalogues the daylily is listed as Hemerocallis—literally meaning "lily for a day." But this botanical name does not reflect the plant's habits. Daylilies have an exceptionally long season of bloom. It is known by many as Lemon lily.

Often this plant is confused with another perennial that is erroneously called "lily,"—the so-called Plantain lily. This is a broad-leaved plant that sends up in late summer a stalk of sweetly scented flowers. Yet it is not a lily and is not even related to the lily genus. It is correctly listed as Hosta.

One of the numerous merits of daylilies is their immunity to insects and diseases. As "escaped" clumps demonstrate, the plants withstand considerable abuse and neglect but respond astonishingly to proper soils and simple Daylilies may be started from seed, division of old clumps, or by planting roots sold by nurseries and seed concerns. Of course, to obtain the newer improved hybrids it is necessary to buy and plant nursery sold roots.

Seed may be sown under glass in late February or under a muslin shade in late July and early August. Roots may be planted in early March or mid-September or slightly later. Divisions from old clumps may be planted any time after the last flowers fade but preferably in early September.

Because native clumps of daylilies thrive in neglected sites of ten leads to the erroneous assumption that his flower prefers lack of attention. However, the finest blooms and most attractive displays of foliage and flower are rewards for clean tillage, good soil maintenance, and otherwise systematic care.

Daylilies do fairly well in partial shade although growth is most vigorous in an open, sunny location. Too, they thrive in a wide range of soil types but reach their peak of perfection in a deep, mellow, well balanced loam.

There are at least 40 named improved varieties, ranging in habit from early flowering in late May to late flowering which continues into September.

Old crowding clumps should be divided and replanted every three or four years to keep them from declining in vigor.

Interested readers who have not already written the editor for a copy of our daylily planting and care instructions should do so at once. Please enclose a stamped, addressed envelope. Of course, all related flower questions are invited.

Mature Peaches Called Best Buy

"Mature but not overripe fruit is a good buy in peaches," says Helen Denning, Penn State extension nutritionist. "The background color instead of the bluish of the peach is the guide to maturity."

When buying peaches, look for a creamy or yellowish background color to be sure peaches are mature enough to ripen, she advises. Too much green in the background indicates the peaches are not mature, lack flavor, and are likely to shrivel before ripening. As for the bluish, it's attractive but some well-

BENDERSVILLE FIREMEN SEEK BUILDING FUND

Bendersville's Fire Company will hold its second annual week-long carnival next week with hope that it can raise through the event a large proportion of the money it needs for its new fire engine house.

Countians who attend the festival, to be held Monday through next Saturday at the Apple Bowl, will have an opportunity to see the progress made on the new brick fire house as they attend the events. The building, mostly constructed by the firemen themselves, is now practically ready for the placing of its roof. Fire Company President W. L. Baumgardner said today that weather has prevented masons from placing the last few blocks holding steel girders, but that as soon as that work is completed the roof can be placed on the new building. He added that it is possible work on the roof may be underway by the time the carnival gets underway next week.

Auxiliary Helping

For the event, the "Apple Bowl" athletic field and picnic and recreation area owned by the firemen, and which, lying on high ground, overlooks the borough itself, will be crowded with equipment for the amusement of those attending the festival.

A ferris wheel, small "kiddie" auto rides, swings, ponies and similar amusements will be present for youngsters and oldsters. In addition there will be games, and entertainment by "The Tones," a musical organization including an organ, guitar and accordion, "Dusty Jim Bailey and the Blue Mountain Boys," and the Biglerville and York Springs High School bands.

Baumgardner said that the auxiliary of the fire company, which is handling the cooking and serving of food, is planning to have two different menus for the affair. During the first three days one type of dinner will be served, during the last three days a completely different dinner will be served.

flavored varieties never have it, even when fully ripe. Peaches are highly perishable. Miss Denning points out. Choose those that are ripe, mellow to the touch, and sound when you're buying peaches to use within a day or so. It's ideal also to buy ripe peaches for canning or freezing if you can use them promptly. Otherwise, those at the firm-ripe stage are a safer choice.

Buy Flower Seeds — Such as English daisy, pansy and other flowers to be planted in August and early September should be bought now, says John Meszaros, Penn State extension ornamental horticulturist.

Farm Calendar

Take Flower Inventory—One way to increase interest in raising flowers for improving the home grounds, according to A. O. Rasmussen, extension ornamental horticulturist of the Pennsylvania State College, is to take part in community floral shows. Take an inventory now of all flowering annuals and perennials suitable for exhibition.

Make Hay For Poultry — H. H. Kauffman, in charge of poultry extension work for the Pennsylvania State College, suggests making hay for feeding the poultry flock. Good leafy hay provides essential vitamins, proteins and minerals. It may be chopped in lengths of 1 to 4 inches and fed on the floor or in racks.

Practice Fast Picking — Save time and motion when picking tomatoes, reminds James O. Dutt, extension vegetable specialist of the Pennsylvania State College. Pick with both hands close together and take as many tomatoes in each hand as possible before moving them to the hamper.

Provide Poultry Range — Penn State extension poultry specialists say that an acre of good range will carry 500 to 600 pullets up to 22 weeks of age. From 100 to 200 turkey poulters can be carried on a like area until they attain considerable size.

Field Day Schedule — The last of five Pennsylvania grassland field days will be held at the Pennsylvania State College on August 20. The first four, held in the corners of the State, attracted a total of 27,000 persons to see the latest in grassland farming.

Control Late Blight — Wet weather and cool nights contribute to the spread of late blight on tomatoes. County agricultural agents can supply full information on blight control measures.

Nitrogen Needed — Birdsfoot trefoil, a promising legume for Pennsylvania farms, seems to need more nitrogen than other legumes because it does not have so many nodules on its roots for taking nitrogen from the air. James Eakin, Penn State extension agronomist, suggests 400 pounds of 5-10-10 per acre after the first cutting.

Be Careful — Between 200 and 400 persons are killed each year by lightning, Joseph McCurdy, Penn State extension agricultural engineer, says you are safest in a large building during a thunderstorm, especially if it is grounded. You are safer in a car or truck than out in the open. Lie down if caught out in the night.

Control Lice — John Pepper, extension entomologist of the Pennsylvania State College, says that body lice on chickens can be controlled by dusting a light application of 3 per cent DDT on the birds after they have settled down for the night.

Prevent Seeding — Unless you are saving seed, prevent seed forming on coreopsis, foxgloves, poppies, phlox and Sweet William, cautions A. O. Rasmussen, Penn State extension ornamental horticulturist. Self-seeding of these species will cause a lot of trouble next year because it will result in an overabundance of plants.

Milk Is Good Feed — Because of its proteins, vitamins and minerals, milk is a good feed for poultry of all ages, reminds J. H. Leuschner, extension poultry specialist of the Pennsylvania State College. Milk also stimulates feed consumption in general.

The position of court jester was last filled in England during the reign of the first Queen Elizabeth, says the National Geographic Society.

ERECT FINE MEMORIAL FOR RIVER PIONEER

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Deep in a craggy gorge of the Colorado River stands one of the most picturesque, and isolated, memorials ever erected to an American frontiersman.

The sturdy shaft on the steep river bank honors Bert Loper, the "Grand Old Man of the River," who three years ago — less than three weeks before his 80th birthday — perished in the turbulent waters over which he had been master for more than half a century.

But the memorial is more than a tribute to the dean of Western river runners. It is the realization of a dream, the dream of Mrs. Rachel Loper, the woman Utah's legendary boatman left behind. Mrs. Loper's unusual dream was not an easy one to accomplish. After planning for nearly three years, she penetrated the river wilderness to construct, with her own hands, the memorial out of native marble.

Trip Of Faith
Her trip of faith ended near the Upper Grand Canyon Rapids, not far from Phantom Ranch, Ariz., where on July 8, 1949 Loper's boat overturned, tumbling him into the white, foaming cataracts.

The old riverman, a semi-hermit, poet and philosopher, had joined a group of veteran river-riders who planned a trip down the Grand Canyon just for the thrill of the ride. Loper jumped at the chance to make the 80th birthday trip he had proposed 10 years before. But soon after the journey began, a large wave capsized the boat. A companion held on. Loper never came up.

It was only the third time in 56 years of battling the Colorado and its tributaries that a Loper-manned boat had capsized.

A search party found the boat — its outboard motor still attached — and pulled it ashore. That's where it still stands. And at the prow of the battered craft is the Loper memorial. The site can be reached only by boat down the same dangerous rapids which claimed Loper's life.

Mrs. Loper organized a party which rode down the churning route this summer to build the monument. It was her second trip into the canyon since her husband's death. In 1951, the boatman's widow, who now lives in Salt Lake City, braved the rapids in an attempt to learn something more about Loper's disappearance.

"Grand Old Man"
She went back this year. Using marble from the canyon's walls, Mrs. Loper patiently constructed a four-foot shaft near the boat. It stands dwarfed by a part of the massive canyon walls which rise to dizzy heights above. And on the memorial, Mrs. Loper attached a bronze plaque which reads:

"Bert Loper, born July 31, 1869, lost July 8, 1949.

"The Grand Old Man of the Colorado River.
"I belong to the wondrous West and the West belongs to me."

Loper, as much as any man, did belong to the West. He had boated on the Colorado for 56 years and on his infrequent visits to nearby communities he would begin to miss the river and hurry back to his Red Canyon cabin.

Perhaps prophetically, Loper was born in Bowling Green, Mo., the same year that Maj. John Wesley Powell first conquered the Mighty Colorado. In 1885, Loper came west to work in Colorado's silver mines. Forced out when the mines closed during the 1893 panic, he began boating into isolated areas to prospect. "I've been at it ever since," he often said.

His travels took him thousands of miles on the Colorado, Green and San Juan Rivers in Utah, the Yampa River in Colorado and the Salmon River in Idaho. From 1907 to 1915, he lived as a hermit in the Lower Colorado River region.

Covered Entire Stream
Loper was head boatman on the Colorado for the U. S. Government men from 1920 until 1922. But in 1923 he was left at home because he was "too old" to make the government survey trip. Sixteen years later, in 1939 when he was 79, Loper completed a boat trip alone down a 250-mile stretch of the Upper Colorado which he had never before traversed. With this feat accomplished, he claimed to be the only man to have covered the entire stream, from its headwaters in Colorado and Wyoming to the Gulf of California, 600 rapids and 1,000 miles away.

Many times Mrs. Loper shared his vivid experiences. The year before his death, she was tossed into the Colorado when their boat capsized. Suffering a broken shoulder and bad bruises, Mrs. Loper lay within the Colorado Gorge, 40 miles from the nearest settlement. By a strange quirk of fate, two friends, on another boating expedition, came along. Mrs. Loper was taken by boat, car and truck nearly 200 miles to a Fruita, Colo., hospital.

But most of her memories of the wild, primitive country are less painful, even those of the violent Colorado which claimed her husband's life. "Here's where he wanted to be — I wouldn't have wanted it otherwise," she says.

An immigrant girl from Scotland, Mrs. Loper married her riverman

TWIN GHOSTS STALK CIVIL RIGHTS ISSUE

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — The twin ghosts stalking behind the civil rights issue in the presidential campaign are emotion and reality. Emotion will overshadow reality all through the campaign. Reality takes charge after the election when Congress comes back.

The two presidential candidates, Gen. Eisenhower and Gov. Stevenson, are being quizzed and watched for their position on civil rights by the three groups most emotionally involved: Negroes, Southern Whites, and the Northern White supporters of civil rights legislation.

Eisenhower and Stevenson can take any stand they want on civil rights. What they say may win them votes or lose them votes. But when the shouting dies, no matter which of them is elected, the new President cannot dictate to the U. S. Senate what it must do.

And no civil rights legislation can pass the Senate unless 64 of the 96 senators want it to. The fact that no civil rights legislation of any consequence has passed the Senate in the 20th Century may be a good indication of what to expect, or not to expect, in the next four years.

Up To Senate

For the core of reality in the whole civil rights dispute rests in the Senate.

If a motion is made to bring up a civil rights bill, the Southern Democrats can filibuster it to death unless 64 of the 96 senators — a constitutional two-thirds — vote to stop the filibuster. Getting a two-thirds vote on such a controversial subject is practically impossible.

All Senate business is done according to rules adopted by the senators themselves. And they alone made the rule that a filibuster against a motion or bill can't be broken except by 64 votes. Since such a vote is almost impossible to obtain, how then could a civil rights bill ever be passed?

About the only chance would be if the senators changed the rule to permit breaking a filibuster with a simple majority of 49 votes. The men who framed the Democratic platform at Chicago recognized the problem and the only possible solution.

So in their platform they "urged" the Senate in 1953 to change its rules to let a filibuster be broken by a majority vote. But this is where the reality in all the hub-bub about civil rights becomes truly clear: for there is no rule or method for breaking a filibuster against an attempt to change the rule.

VET AND IRISH GIRL HAVE CHAT

TRALEE, Ireland (AP) — Frank Hayostak started today to find out if Ireland really is as interesting as his Irish colleen pen-pal described it.

The Johnstown, Pa., arc welder flew to the Emerald Isle Tuesday for his first meeting with 24-year-old Breda O'Sullivan, the girl who's been writing to him ever since she found a bottle he'd chucked into the sea with a note inside. That was in 1945.

There was a mix-up on the meeting. Breda travelled 30 miles from her home at Lispolo, County Kerry, to Tralee to meet him, while Hayostak hurried through to Lispolo. They finally got together here for a long chat before Breda returned to her farm home. Frank

No Comment On Plans

Neither would comment on future plans. But Hayostak said: "Two years ago I decided to come to Ireland because Breda writes very well and her description of Ireland interested me. She appeared to be the type of girl I like."

The two began their correspondence when Breda found and replied to a message Hayostak had tossed overboard in a bottle from the troop transport on which he was returning to the U. S. after wartime Army service in Europe.

SUNBURY, Pa. (AP) — A water pipe charged with electricity killed two-year-old Scott Beachel of Oaklyn, Sunbury R. 1, Tuesday.

State Police said the youngster fell over a pump pipe that carries water from the basement of his home to the outside. They added that a short-circuit in the pump had charged the pipe with 110 volts.

BOMB-LADEN B-29 CRASHES AND 2 MEN DIE

TOKYO (AP) — A bomb-laden B-29 Superfort, bound for North Korea, crashed and burned last night four minutes after it took off from Yokota Air Base west of Tokyo.

Far East air forces headquarters said nine crewmen made low-altitude parachute leaps before the crash but the pilot and two other crew members were missing.

Kyodo News Agency quoted Japanese police that the three missing men had died in the crash.

The pilot released the bombs with fuses inactivated before the impact. Police said one exploded in some unexplained manner and slightly injured an elderly Japanese man.

Three Japanese firemen were burned slightly while fighting the oil and gasoline fire at the wreckage.

The Air Force said two engines of the plane caught fire during and right after takeoff.

Land Quick Thinking

An Air Force officer said it was remarkable that the pilot had time to jettison his bombs and gain enough altitude to make parachute jumps possible.

Normally, an altitude of at least 300 feet is necessary for an emergency parachute jump and more is preferable. With two engines afire, the stricken aircraft, heavy with gasoline, would have had great difficulty gaining altitude.

"There was some remarkably quick thinking aboard the plane," an Air Force officer said. "Nine men at least owe their lives to it."

The B-29 crashed in a rice paddy about 200 yards from the nearest Japanese house and burned for more than an hour.

HYBRID GRASSES MAY GROW WILD AS STOCK FEED

BERKELEY, Calif. — Scientists have produced in the laboratory some new species of grasses which they believe will grow wild on the range, competing against weeds and brush and providing new sources of livestock feed.

Plant breeding in the laboratory usually results in varieties which need cultivation or at least watchful supervision of humans. The idea of a bred plant that can do better than hold its own against the tough vegetation of arid wastes is a forward step in man's effort to control natural processes.

Plants Change
These new types, like many natural varieties, apparently have a built-in ability to fit themselves into different environments.

Seed from a single variety, sown in one locality, eventually yield offspring varying slightly from those produced by the identical seed in another location. Each kind seemingly works toward becoming better adapted to the place or the climate in which it started to grow. This is one of the fruits of experiments in which scientists learned how to make sterile hybrids fertile. Dr. G. Ledyard Stebbins, Jr., geneticist in the University of California College of Agriculture, tells about it.

Hybrids, or crosses between one kind of living thing and another, usually are sterile. Using two different methods, Dr. Stebbins and associates induced fertility into several types of plant crosses.

Hybrid Produced
One was a cross between blue wild rye and squirrel tail grass. The natural rye plant does well in the California foothills but cannot stand drought. Squirrel tail grass is drought resistant but has spikes on it that makes it dangerous for stock feed. The result of the cross was a plant resembling blue wild rye that was drought resistant and had spikes less formidable than squirrel tail grass.

These first crosses were sterile — seedless. Dr. Stebbins propagated them by cutting off stems and stocks and coaxing them to grow, alongside some of the parent blue wild rye plants.

This association with the parent evidently did some good. Among 48,000 blossoms produced by the second-generation hybrids the experimenters found a single potent seed.

The lone seed produced a plant with a few more good seeds. From those beginnings the new plant has grown successfully in several places and it stands to become a new species of forage grass, Dr. Stebbins said.

The geneticist also reported on another way of producing fertile new plant types. It is done by doubling the number of chromosomes or heredity carriers in plant cells.

Poison Helped
Colchicine, a poison derived from a common plant, is used to bring this about. The poison interferes with cell division, the basic mechanism of growth. It does not, however, interfere with the process by which a cell doubles the number of its chromosomes just before dividing.

A colchicine-poisoned cell keeps on working internally. Its chromosomes reproduce themselves and it thus has a double set of heredity carriers.

Under certain conditions this overgrown cell will shake off the effects of the poison, again double its chromosomes and divide into two cells, each of which will have twice as many heredity carriers as the parent cell before it was poisoned.

These new double-heredity cells continue to reproduce their kind indefinitely and they build themselves into a plant resembling that of their untreated ancestors but having important differences.

The process has been used to improve grapes, bananas, pineapples. But it can also increase the chances for producing a fertile hybrid in case it is crossed with some other species of plant. It multiplies the probabilities for the pairing-off of chromosomes from cells of another plant species into a combination that will produce a new type of individual.

IUE Head Expects Force Is Necessary

NEW YORK (AP)—James E. Carey, president of the CIO International Union of Electrical Workers (IUE), says he does not believe the union will reach a contract settlement with the General Electric Co. "without being very, very forceful."

Carey made the statement after

SWINE IMPORTS BANNED BY PA.

HARRISBURG (AP)—The importation of all swine, except those intended for immediate slaughter, has been banned in Pennsylvania.

The State Agriculture Department took the action Tuesday as a precaution against a new livestock disease that already has appeared in 20 other states.

Secretary Miles Horst identified the disease as vesicular exanthema. He said it has been discovered in four counties in neighboring New Jersey and one each in New York and Ohio.

"Of immediate concern to the livestock industry of Pennsylvania is the fact that the disease, in its early stages, so closely resembles foot and mouth disease that every precaution must be taken," Horst said.

Department regulations covering the shipments of swine were sent day-long negotiating sessions on a new contract Tuesday.

The union demanded pay increases and other benefits which it estimated would total 20 to 30 cents an hour.

Negotiations, which began Tuesday, were recessed to August 13. Carey said at a news conference that company negotiators "listened very carefully, but they were not prepared to answer our proposal."

Report Barbara To Wed Fifth Time

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Barbara Hutton, oft-wed heiress to the Woolworth millions, left Tuesday night for Honolulu. There, said the San Francisco Examiner, she will marry British-born socialite David Pleydell-Bouverie.

The Examiner reported Barbara's friends said Pleydell-Bouverie, 41, accompanied the 39-year-old four-times wed heiress. Pan American Airways refused to say whether he was aboard. Its employees prevented reporters from seeing the group at the airport.

The Examiner said the party also included Miss Hutton's only child, Lance Haugwitz-Reventlow, 16, and four maids and secretaries. Pleydell-Bouverie has been wed once, to Alice Astor, daughter of the late John Jacob Astor. They were divorced early this year.

Miss Hutton's former husbands were Serge Mdivani, a Russian Georgian prince, Count Haugwitz-Reventlow, movie star Cary Grant and Igor Troubetsky, a Lithuanian prince. She was divorced from Troubetsky last November.

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Truman went to see "Porgy and Bess" Tuesday night but his own Bess wasn't with him at the National Theater.

Mrs. Truman stayed behind in Independence, Mo., when the President flew to Washington Tuesday after a 10-day visit in his hometown. He was accompanied to the theater by Secretary of the Treasury Snyder and Mrs. Snyder and their son-in-law, John E. Horton. Truman seemed to enjoy himself thoroughly.

NEW SIGNS OF DEMOCRATIC UNION SIGHTED

By The Associated Press

There were new signs today the Democratic Party is uniting far more solidly behind Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson than it did behind President Truman.

Sen. Richard B. Russell of Georgia, one of the losers in the race for the nomination prize won by Stevenson, said the Illinois governor will be elected president "by one of the largest majorities any man ever had."

Russell, after a talk with Stevenson yesterday, predicted the governor will carry the entire South. He said he saw no indication of a Dixie revolt like the one that split the party in 1948.

Only Texas A Question

South Carolina joined the growing list of Southern states backing Stevenson yesterday.

Only Texas remains a question mark in the Solid South.

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, Republican presidential nominee, continued building unity in his own party. He booked conferences today with two more pre-convention Taft supporters.

They were Gov. Len B. Jordan, of Idaho and George T. Hansen, the party's national committeeman from Utah. Both strongly backed Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio for the nomination.

Other Developments

Returns still trickled in from Tuesday's primaries in Missouri, Michigan and Kansas, but they did not change earlier standings of major candidates.

There were these other developments, at headquarters and elsewhere:

Stevenson sent out a call for a select group of party chiefs to gather in Springfield late next week to help him chart his campaign course. Stevenson also accepted Truman's invitation to come to Washington and sit in on a Cabinet session next Tuesday.

Eisenhower's running mate, Sen. Richard M. Nixon of California, is due in Denver tomorrow to confer with the general—and maybe set up his own headquarters nearby.

Julius H. Requa, life-long Democrat and Maryland delegate to the Democratic National Convention, announced he would work and vote for Eisenhower.

Candidates May Speak In State

HARRISBURG (AP)—The two top candidates on the Democratic party national ticket for the November election may deliver major campaign addresses in Pennsylvania.

Maurice Spalin Jr., state party chairman, disclosed yesterday he expects both Gov. Adlai Stevenson of Illinois and Sen. John J. Sparkman (D-Ala.) to deliver important addresses in the state.

Spalin did not say where or when either would speak.

Meanwhile, planning for the state campaign got underway with dates fixed for meetings of the state policy and platform committees. Both will meet in Harrisburg, the former Aug. 14 and the latter tomorrow.

Col. Katherine Towle To Retire Next May 1

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Marine Corps today announced Col. Katherine A. Towle, director of women Marines, will retire next May 1 to become dean of students at the University of California at Berkeley.

Col. Towle, director of women Marines since 1945, is the first person to hold that post. She is a former assistant dean of women at the University of California.

SIX SEEKING CHAIRMANSHIP OF YOUNG GOP

HARRISBURG (AP)—A six-way contest was developing today for the post of chairman of the Pennsylvania Federation of Young Republican clubs.

The federation, which claims a membership of more than 50,000 throughout the commonwealth, will elect officers Aug. 23 at the conclusion of its annual two-day convention here.

Sen. Richard Nixon of California,

GOP vice presidential nominee, has been invited to address the 500 delegates.

Included in the list of candidates is the present chairman, Robert L. Kunzig, Philadelphia, deputy state attorney general.

Other Candidates

Other candidates were expected to be Frank J. Pasquerella, and H. Clifton McWilliams, both of Johnstown; Enoch Thomas, Forty Fort, Luzerne County; Duane R. Jennings, Pittsburgh, and Elkins Wetherill, Norristown.

Gov. John S. Fine, Sen. James H. Duff and State Sen. M. Harvey Taylor, state GOP chairman, head the speakers at the federation's annual banquet following the election.

Other speakers include the Rev. William Alexander, Oklahoma City,

Weighing Devices Must Be Inspected

HARRISBURG (AP)—All new, second-hand or repaired weighing and measuring devices must be inspected before being put into use in national Republican chaplain, and Herbert Warburton, Wilmington, Del., national Young Republican chairman.

Also to be elected are two representatives to the Young Republican national committee to succeed Ellsworth Metehler, Easton, and Mrs. Mary Martin Murphy, Washington, Pa., daughter of Sen. Edward Martin.

Officers of the federation are not permitted to run for reelection after their 38th birthday.

Pennsylvania under a new order of the Department of Internal Affairs.

Effective immediately, the order will not include such devices already in use unless repairs are made, said William S. Livengood Jr., Department secretary.

"The new regulation will not only afford additional protection to the public but also to the purchasers of weighing and measuring devices," commented Joseph F. Blickley, director of the Bureau of Standard Weights and Measures.

Two Johnstown Papers To Merge

JOHNSTOWN, Pa. (AP)—The Morning Johnstown Democrat and the Evening Johnstown Tribune will combine Sept. 8 into an all-day newspaper in an economy move.

Publisher Walter W. Krebs said the new paper, the Johnstown Tribune-Democrat, will cover both the afternoon and morning fields.

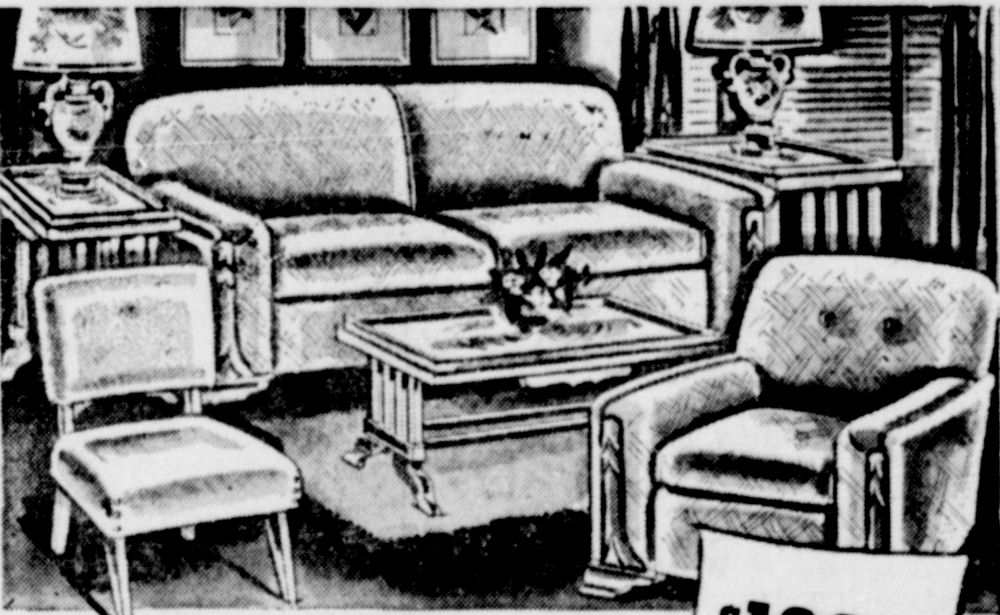

Three daily editions are planned. Krebs said "rising wages and newspaper costs and everything else that goes into the production of a newspaper" makes the merger necessary.

When Methuselah was a boy

Pharmacy is one of the world's oldest professions. It was a recognized art long before the time of Methuselah. In centuries past, herbalists and medicine men had their concoctions and mystic rituals, which were both comfort and succor to the ailing. The advent of scientific medicine and pharmacy brought an end to mysticism and empiricism, but service to the sick has remained the first concern of the pharmacist. Today the pharmacist is not a diagnostician, nor is he qualified to prescribe medication. Compounding and dispensing the physician's prescription is the pharmacist's specialty. That is our lifework, and we appreciate the opportunity to serve.
